Dear Parents

Slapped Cheek Disease

I am writing to give you a general warning that there have recently been some cases of Slapped Cheek Disease in the school. This is to alert you to the fact that contact with this illness can cause problems during pregnancy. If, therefore, your child does contract Slapped Cheek Disease please be sure to warn friends, family etc who may need to avoid contact with the child for a short time. If you discover you have been in contact with a child infected with Slapped Cheek Disease and have any concerns please contact your G.P. for advice.

Yours sincerely

Andy Yeoman
